

Register of Interests

In accordance with the Impress Code of Conduct, Board Members and senior management are asked to review their personal and professional life and that of any spouse, partner or dependent children, in order to identify which current or former interests, if any, might reasonably be perceived by an independent bystander as directly or indirectly influencing their judgement.

In completing this Register of Interests, Board Members and senior management are asked to comply with the letter and the spirit of the Code of Conduct, which incorporates the Nolan Principles.
