

Register of Interests

In accordance with the Impress Code of Conduct, Board Members and senior management are asked to review their personal and professional life and that of any spouse, partner or dependent children, in order to identify which current or former interests, if any, might reasonably be perceived by an independent bystander as directly or indirectly influencing their judgement.

In completing this Register of Interests, Board Members and senior management are asked to comply with the letter and the spirit of the Code of Conduct, which incorporates the Nolan Principles.

Name: David Leigh

Position:

Date of appointment:

Form last updated: NO CHANGES

Interest	Current	Former (give dates)
Membership of any political party.
Position of authority in a charity or voluntary body.
Connection with any body which contracts with or is likely to contract with Impress, including but not limited to news publishers.
Directorships in public bodies, public or private companies including non-executive directorships.

Majority or controlling shareholdings in any undertaking.
Ownership of any company, business or consultancy.
Remunerated employment, consultancy, trade, profession or vocation.
Any significant public statements made on social media or in an article, blogpost, book, interview for broadcast media or any other public forum that might reasonably be viewed by an independent bystander as (i) compromising Impress's fairness and impartiality as a regulator; or (ii) compromising Impress's openness to all news publishers on fair, reasonable and non-discriminatory terms.
Any other interest that might reasonably be perceived by an independent bystander as directly or indirectly influencing or affecting their judgement.		